

403 – JAVA PROGRAMMING LANGUAGE

JOURNAL 2

1. Write a program that accept a number from commandline and display individual digits on the interval of 10 seconds.
2. Write a program to print Even and odd numbers in the interval of 1 second.
3. Write a program that stores details of 5 employees and display these information after every one second.
4. Write a program to create interface Area. Create three classes called rectangle, triangle and square calculate areas respectively.
5. Write a program that will accept two strings or two numbers from command line and create overloaded method that add these two numbers or concatenate two strings.
6. Write a program that will accept a number from command line and raise a user defined exception if the number consists of odd number of digits.
7. Write a java application which accepts 10 names of student and their age. Sort names and age in descending order at an interval of 1 second using thread.
8. Write a program that will accept a string from commandline and arrange all the characters in alphabetical order.
E.g. input-computer output-cemoprtu
9. Design a class Cricketer having data member name and a number of matches and appropriate member function to set the values. Derived two classes Batsman and Bowler from cricketer class with data member total number of runs and wickets respectively. Batsman class is having method to calculate average wicket. Write a program to create two objects and display information of one batsman and bowler along with average run and wicket.
10. Create a class namely Book to maintain Book details like id, name, quantity and author using singly linked list. Perform following operations on booklist:
 - a. Add book details in the beginning of the list
 - b. Add book details at the end of the list
 - c. Add book detail at particular position
 - d. Remove first book detail from the list
 - e. Remove last book detail from the list
 - f. Display all book details in the list